

K Home International Limited Re-certification to ISO 9001 and Certification to BS OHSAS 18001

K Home International (KHI) recently underwent a re-certification audit to BS EN ISO 9001 and has once again, for the fifth time, gained renewal of their certificate. In today's challenging economic climate it would have been easy for KHI to have delayed the audit, however not only has the company renewed its ISO certification it has set its sights on gaining BS OHSAS 18001 during the remainder of 2009. In advance of the main audit in November which will be carried out by DNV, KHI's external certification body, KHI has already undertaken a gap analysis within their own offices and at one of their construction sites, where typically KHI have provided Construction Management services along with Principal Contractor duties and CDMC.

Investing in third party certification KHI believe provides Clients with confidence that robust systems are in place, and that they are supported by sound working practices that will deliver what the Client requires.

KHI is a proactive organisation and believes that existing systems need to be constantly reviewed and where possible improved and enhanced. The objective is to exceed Client's expectation which we maintain, is key to our business success both now and in the future.

KHI is a privately owned business which has been established for 35 years, the key to their ongoing success is the flexible approach provided to Clients during project execution. The company has the capability to carry out fully integrated EPCM projects, provide guidance and support in areas such as Feasibility Studies, Construction Management, individual Engineering Disciplines and SHE / CDM Management. KHI also offers considerable experience and expertise in 3D Modelling and Materials Handling.
